"Everything is currency. The definition of currency is something that has value and that we trade. But barter is just the same and that's what this game will help teach people," explained Ana Hawk, creator of My Barter Game™. "We're teaching people to have the lifestyle that they had back in the heyday of business, in the 70s and 80s. People remember when cars, travel, entertainment and vacations were bonuses for success in business. What people don't understand is that it was all done through trade. It doesn't really matter what shape the economy is in; anybody can have that lifestyle they desire."

My Barter Game™ helps players understand that barter can be used much in the same way as currency is today. Barter is recognized globally, with over 400,000 businesses involved in the USA alone. It has become a fundamental strategy in today's business economic operations. Large corporations understand the powerful tool that barter always has been in business and utilize it all of the time as part of their daily operations.

Proceeds from My Barter Game™ help fund the Red Paper Clip Center, a nonprofit organization working to end the cycles of abuse and create a centralized database that connects nonprofits.
